

Simply Water - © Carol A. Hanson, 01-2008

Oh, how I love this glorious, gentle misty, rainy day
Each blade of grass, each flower stem and petal
Each branch, limb and trunk drink in each drop
Giving thanks with their beauty, strength, and glory
Giving back with oxygen for other life to breathe

Oh, how I love this glorious, pouring down rainy day
Rivers welcome each drop into their flow so that they may Give thanks with the joyous sound of rushing water
Delivering the life-giving moisture out from their banks
Growing bountiful crops of vegetables, fruits and grains

Oh, how I love each and every dark, cloudy, rainy day
For I am a recipient of all life's abundance produced with the Gift of this most brilliant of creations –water beautiful water
Giving thanks each day with my love for Mother Earth & Father Sky
May I give back with the passion of each raindrop that is – simply water.
